Annual Ratepayers Meeting Held

With an attendance of about 30, on Friday night, the Annual Ratepayers Meeting was held. It was a very cold night, and this fact kept many away from the meeting. There has also been a number of cases of flu and this illness kept quite a number away who had intended attending.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor May who called for nominations as Chairman of the meeting and Rulon Dahl was chosen, and came to the front. Rayo Woolf was named Secretary of the meeting, and the business of the evening was taken up.

Due to the illness of Secretary O. H. Snow, the Financial Statement of the Town was presented by I. B. Robert, Chairman of the Finance Committee. This report showed the affairs of the Town to be in good condition, with a tax collection of 86 per cent on the total levy for 1936. While relief costs mounted to more than twice the total for last year, and several other departments were called on for heavier expenditures than last year, still the Town ended the year only owing slightly over $1,100 and no indebtedness at the Bank. Comparisons with levies and collections of other years showed improvement, all of which was very gratifying to the members of the Council and the Ratepayers.

Paul Dahl next presented the statement of the School, which showed all bills paid but a few minor ones, and the costs of operation — down a little over last year, despite the fact that more service was being rendered. The town had found it impossible to pay the full requisition of the School Board, and because of this, their program had been curtailed some. However, the necessary services had been rendered and the Board were well satisfied with the co-operation of the Town Council in the matter of payments made.

Chairman C. F. Tollestrup made a few remarks concerning the plans of the Board for the future, and the fact that a building program will have to be undertaken in the near future. The Mayor made a few brief remarks, cutting his remarks short because of the lateness of the hour.

The Financial statements of both Town and School brought forth a great deal of discussion, and all questions were satisfactorily answered although the absence of Secretary Snow made the answer to all questions impossible, because all the reports were not to hand. A hearty vote of thanks was given the School Board and Council for their labors and the meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m., every body being well satisfied with the public affairs of the Town.

NEWS NOTES

City of Lethbridge gave their electric users a cut from 7 to 6 1/2c. on their first block of energy at this week's meeting. The surplus earned by the light department the past year made this reduction possible.

Newspaper reports the first of the week stated that Lethbridge was to have a brick and tile plant, east of the Sunshine Trail and south of the Huff Oil Refinery. Tests had been made and plenty of material had been found for the clay supplies in a radius of fifteen miles. Success to the new industry, these are the things that make Alberta and stabilize her people.

NEWS NOTES

Geo. Coupl had an attack of flu last week and was laid up for a day or two.

Pres. and Mrs. T. Geo. Wood attended Sunday evening Conference in Lethbridge returning to Raymond on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Woolley left the first of this week for Salt Lake City, where they will reside. Mr. Woolley's health demands a change.

T. O. King, President of the Alberta Trustees is presiding over the Trustees Convention which has been in session in Edmonton this week.

Montana police are holding a suspect in Deer Lodge penitentiary, who closely resembles the pictures of the Mattson kidnapping suspect.

Portland started digging its self out from under the worst 24 hour snow storms in its history, and forecasts of warmer weather made flood dangers very imminent for the Pacific northwest.

Ben Johnson of Barnwell has a pig frisking about his farm that had been buried in a straw stack for twenty-one days. The mouth of the pig had to be pried open to give it its first feed after its long burial.

Trustees H. Myron Holmes and J. O. A. Stevenson are in Edmonton this week representing the local School District at the Trustees Convention being held there.

It is a safe bet that more tickets have been used in the local C.P.R. ticket office in the past month, than have been used altogether in the past five years for passenger transportation. The station has become a very popular place again.

The Greyhound bus which broke an axle between Magrath and Spring Coulee, just as the blowing and drifting started, is still there, covered with snow almost to the roof. When the snow plow gets through it will be snaked in for an overhaul and repairs.

Jas Meeks states that quite a number of his cattle have frozen feet. Some rather badly, and others not so bad. The continued cold weather, with every inch of the ground covered with snow, has made it a terribly hard winter on range stock especially. Pres. Wood of Cardston reports the loss of 20 head of stock diagnosed by Dr. V. V. Christie, Veterinarian as "Coccidiosis."

Firing squads in Soviet Russia executed 13 condemned men Monday morning, burying them in a common grave in Moscow's patten's field. Twelve men made up the firing squad, and the executions were carried out as fast as one victim collapsed and another one was marched into his place.

Hon. Solon Low Named to Cabinet

Solon E. Low, M.L.A. for Warner has now become Provincial Treasurer, and with it comes the title Honorable. Congratulations to Solon in his promotion, and to Premier Aberhart in choosing so wisely for the important post of Treasurer.

The new appointee comes to his post with a life of activity behind him. While his life has been spent primarily in the school room, where he has always made an enviable record, his interests have touched into numerous other fields, and because of his pioneer parentage and raising, he will bring to his new post that peculiar characteristic of the Westerner of finding a solution to his problems.

That he has a difficult portfolio is apparent. In these times of stress, financing is one of the big problems of any Government. Between now and February 22, his department will have to prepare the Provincial budget, which will run into five figures likely, and the preparation will be made in an effort to "balance the budget. As though the appointment at the eleventh hour were not enough, the Deputy Provincial Treasurer has also resigned, and this will entail the swearing in of a new Deputy before the work of the Department can get under way.

There is however, this consolation to the Hon. Mr. Low Mr. Cockroft, the late official, will be in Edmonton, and has graciously offered any possible assistance to the new appointee in managing the affairs of the Department until the routine is mastered. It is quite likely that Solon will use the experience of Mr. Cockroft, at last for the immediate present to assist in re-organizing the department.

We congratulate our member in his appointment. He is the second Southern Alberta man to be taken into the Cabinet, and while the South may have been disappointed in the first Cabinet formation, they are certainly getting their share of the honors in the present re-organization. Hon. Mr. Low will have the best wishes of all Southern Alberta and particularly his constituents in the carrying out of his new responsibilities.

News Notes

Pres. H. F. Allen spent several days last week in bed with the flu. He was at work Saturday, but was not feeling very good.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Snow were both ill over the week-end with flu. While not serious the present variety of flu is very distressing.

The bus made its first regular trip Saturday evening when it continued on to Magrath and returned Sunday morning resuming its usual schedule that far.

Lack of water, and dry straw has been the cause of the death of a number of horses and cattle throughout Southern Alberta. A continuation of the cold weather will cause heavy losses before spring comes.

Oil stocks seem to be climbing to boom proportions. 58 applications for oil leases have been received at Calgary, and one company is to launch a $500,000 drilling program in the spring.

Elder Reed snoot of the Council of the Twelve was appointed to attend the Canadian Conferences this winter, but due to the severe weather and blocked roads his visit was cancelled.

Elder Rufus K. Hardy of the First Council of Seventy, Salt Lake City, attended the Lethbridge Stake Conference on Sunday.

We want the news. Will you help us. Any social event, a visit, almost any out of the ordinary event is news, and your neighbors like to read it.

Because of blocked roads and the severe weather, schools closed in Diamond City last week. Country schools have been confronted with real attendance problems during the past month.

The local High School squad journeyed to Magrath for a regular league game, and came home on the short end of a 48-32 score. Magrath have a strong lineup this year, and will make a strong bid for the High School championship.

J. F. Percival, Deputy Provincial Treasurer has resigned his position. This with the Hon. Solon E. Low coming to the post of Provincial Treasurer with out experience will make his work extremely difficult until re-organization can be effected. The machine running smoothly. Percival has been in the Treasury Department for almost seven years.

Voting on Monday

Voting for Councillors and School Board members will take place at the Town Hall Monday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., with Chas. E. Fawns in charge as Returning Officer. There are 240 names on the Town Voter's List and 1,065 on the School Trustees list this year, the largest list Raymond has ever had. In addition to the Council vote, the electors will be asked to express an opinion respecting the location of the Swimming Pool. The three proposed sites are listed on the ballots, and voters will be asked to place an X opposite the site they prefer. Professional engineers have designated the present site as unsuitable, because of the difficulty of drainage and the danger of water-logging and cracking. These troubles however, can be overcome by the expenditure of sufficient money if that is the site the populace of the Town want. Don't forget the place and the time Monday, Town Hall, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

C. W. Selman was in Lethbridge Thursday consulting Dr. Campbell in connection with a Workmen's Compensation Board case resulting from his work at the Factory.

Travellers are still taking advantage of the train service, roads not being good enough to be travelled with safety. They use considerable time, but at least they are safe.

Recent blizzards in southern Alberta have given a great many people some very disagreeable experiences. Stalling motor cars and trucks, and wading through snow drifts waist deep have, only been a few of the experiences encountered.

Since the Lethbridge road was opened up last Friday, trucks have been kept busy catching upon belated coal orders. Truckers are making almost daily trips now despite the sub-zero temperatures.

The new Telephone directories are being circulated now and are replacing the old ones. Several new names have been added to phone subscribers in the past six months.

Mayor Jos. Low, Cardston has been re-nominated, and will be opposed in Monday's voting there by Lee Gilchrist, who resigned as Town Manager about two months ago to go into the Garage business in the Temple City.

Residents of the lower Mississippi are breathing easier now as Army officials reassure them that the worst of the present flood danger is over, and the levees are likely to hold back the 60 foot high wall of water.

Local residents of the district between Cardston and Waterton Park joined forces last week and cleared the road from Cardston west. Truck drivers were working the early part of the week to clear the road to Magrath and proceeded as far as Bradshaw on Monday.

The Town Hall was the centre of interest from 11 to 12 a.m. Monday when nominations for vacancies on the Council and School Board were received by Returning Officer Chas. E. Fawns. There had been a lot of talk about a clean sweep in the retiring officials, and some statements of dissatisfaction with the way things had been run. However when nomination day arrived only three new names were placed in nomination, 6 of the retiring officials being re-nominated.

S. I. May, who was chosen Mayor to fill the unexpired term of Mayor W. G. Meeks last summer, was the only name presented for Mayor and he was elected by acclamation for a two year term.

Retiring Councilmen were; Melvin T. King, Wm. Jensen and Lloyd McPhee and they were all re-nominated, with Junius L. Anderson and T. T. Mendenhall.

Chairman C. F. Tollestrup and D. G. Selman were re-nominated for another term on the School Board, and Robert J. Fansett was the new nominee here.

At 12 Noon the Returning Officer presented these names as having been duly nominated and announced an election for next Monday Feb. 8th at the Town Hall. Voting will take place from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.

NEWS NOTES

The cold weather is making trains late on the C.P.R. main lines their crack trains chugging into stations from one to two hours late.

Scientists of London, Eng., blame sunspots for our radio interference the past few weeks. Maybe if this weather ever moderates this trouble will cease.

With the sale of Alberta's rural telephone lines to Mutual Companies the country is getting hooked up again with its neighbors, and in most instances Mutual rates are low enough that everyone can afford to have the phone.

Carpenters are being asked for a lot of advice now respecting additions and alterations, and local bankers will likely have a busy time deciding on loans to householders early in the spring.

Well, the ground hog didn't see his shadow, and California and Oregon report warmer weather. Be hopeful, and in another four weeks at the least we should see the end of the present cold spell.

Earl P. Tanner and N. E. Blaxall are Mayoralty candidates in Magrath. Both men are well known to Raymond people and either will make good material for the Carden City's Chief Magistrate. George Gurney, who is retiring refused another term.

The snow plow got out as far as Weffing on Sunday, when they broke down and had to go back to Lethbridge. It took all day Monday to get repaired and Tuesday they were again trying to open the trail on south and west to Cardston.

N. H. Bradley, District Road Engineer, reports that drifted snow is packed so hard in many places that widening the narrow cuts through the drifts is out of the question, and the only thing motorists can do is to go slow in these places.

AM I KIDDING MYSELF?

(By Roe Fulkerson)
(A Maywood Syndicate Excerpt from Kimanis Magazine)

It was in the early days of the oil excitement in Oklahoma. A young lad came into the oil country with a pick and shovel, a weak mind and a strong back. He was going to dig an oil well with his pick and shovel and his own hands. His mistake was explained to him, and he swapped his pick and shovel for a monkey wrench and began tightening up nuts on derricks or something, saved his money and bought an interest in a piece of land so poor that a jack rabbit had to carry a haversack when he crossed it on business. Everyone knows what a jack rabbit's business is.

There is no use prolonging this story. A fool for luck and a poor man for hound dogs. He hit it big and was soon in the real money. He was a nice fellow while he had it, too, but he got old and they took it. But every one liked him, so his old associates saw to it that his grocery bills were paid and his room rent taken care of. Temus did its time-honored fighting. The boys grew tired of chipping in. Just as the old fellow was in a pretty bad way, his long lost brother wrote from New York and asked him to come and spend his remaining days with him.

There was great joy in the town at the news. The boys decided to send him on his way dressed up like Mr. Astor's plush horse. They passed the hat and everyone gave cheerfully. They gave him the finest dinner the town afforded. At the dinner, local orators oozed eloquence from every pore and pimple. They tossed verbal bouquets. They told him how sorry they were to see him go.

The old man rose to his feet. Tears filled his eyes. His throat was tight. He choked and swallowed and blurted out: "I just know nobody in New York will ever love me as much as you fellows do, and I'm going to stay right here."

Ours is a small and friendly town. I walked down the street. In front of a real estate office stood a nice looking man. I could not place him, but I said my "Good afternoon!" as though I once did I blame myself for this evident lack of good taste on his part. I just felt sorry for him.

In fact, when he said that "Oh!" with such finality, I walked away amused. I felt so superior to him that I even thought the next time he saw me passing, he would ask who I was, and feel deeply humiliated because he had not known who I was.

Mature thought had made me realize that perhaps that other fellow is wondering why the heck I didn't know the important person he undoubtedly knows he is. I suspect he is thinking I must be dead from the neck up if I haven't found out that he is one of the most enterprising real estate men in this town. He may even be right.

Maybe, if I had been doing my full civic duty in this town, the people in it would know me better. Civic service is the rent a man pays for the room he occupies in a town. Maybe I am behind in my rent in this town.

DANGERS OF BOOM ARE POINTED OUT

"There are two dangers which we should watch in the coming year," The Canadian Banker says editorially in the January issue. "There is the danger that the stock market should get beyond control. Prosperity does not lie in a rising stock market, but in rising employment and its greater real incomes for our people. The stock market revolves about rumors, and perhaps the best antidote to markets which are too exuberant is full and complete information published by companies whose shares are listed on the exchanges. A severe setback to an over-extended stock market may have an important effect on the volume of investment and of the new commitments for 1937."

The second danger which needs to be watched is that of rising wages. There is no more desirable event than an increase in the productivity of our labor, and there are of course many trades where wages have been abnormally depressed during the past few years, and where readjustment is necessary and just. There is, however, a danger that we may get increases in wages in certain trades while a large number of people are still left unemployed. In 1937 it will be necessary in Canada to have a concerted effort to bring about the re-employment of the unemployed.

Maybe he is a newcomer in the village. Maybe he is not interested in politics, and does not know of my signal political victory which is such a tribute to my charming personality.

Not once did I wonder whether it was my fault. Not once did I question why I had never strolled into that office and made myself known to that man. Not Every attention must be given to improving their employability and increasing their ability to move back into jobs. If widespread increases in wages should come about while there still remained a solid core of unemployment in the country, we might well go through a boom period and reach another depression without having re-employed those who are now out of work. That would indeed be a national catastrophe." From "The Canadian Banker," January 1937.

"Be It Ever So Humble"

It is to the "humble homes" of Canada that the great majority of Life Insurance payments find their way.

Many such homes today would lack the necessities of life—were it not for the "little savings" which thrifty parents have set aside periodically in Life Insurance.

To the family which loses its breadwinner, Life Insurance means money to buy food and clothing—money to pay the rent—money to pay household bills—money to educate the children. Life Insurance also means, in many cases, independence of private charity or public relief.

In your own community, as well as in hundreds of cities and towns across Canada, "little savings" in Life Insurance are doing "big jobs". During the past six years, policyholders and beneficiaries in Canada have received, daily, from their Life Insurance Savings, half a million dollars.

"Be it ever so humble"—there's no home which cannot have the much-needed protection of Life Insurance.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION IF THE BRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER

Now is the time the beekeeper is commencing to think of his spring operations in his apiary. A few results of experiments with spring manipulations conducted at the station apiary may be of interest.

BUILDING UP WEAK COLONIES IN THE SPRING

The beekeeper usually finds some colonies that are weak in the spring. Examinations of such colonies at the station have shown the principal causes for this condition to be: loss of the queen, poor queen, or insufficient stores.

A number of methods for strengthening weak colonies have been tried and the one that has been the most easily manipulated and has given results equal to any other is the giving of one comb of the emerging brood to the weak colony. Another method that has been giving good results, but which is more difficult to manipulate is to place a weak colony above a strong colony over a queen excluder. The weak colony is left in this position for three weeks when the original brood chamber of the strong colony is moved to a new stand and the weak colony is placed on the old base so that it will receive the strength of field bees. Shaking a pound package of bees into the weak colony has also given good results, but not quite equal to the other two methods.

DETECTING PREPARATIONS FOR SWARMING

Several methods for detecting preparations for swarming have been tried at the station and the one that has been the most satisfactory because it entailed the least work and was as effective as more laborious practices was the super-tipping method. The procedure followed in this method was to enlarge the brood chamber by adding a shallow super in the late spring as the brood was expanding. At the regular hive examinations during the swarming season the brood chamber was examined for cells by simply tipping the super up from behind and noting the presence or absence of queen cells on the lower part of the frames on the shallow super.

Out of 257 colonies that have been examined in various years in this way, queen cells were found in 114 on frames in the upper super. The entire brood chamber of each colony was examined weekly and queen cells were found in 25 that showed no queen cells above. In these 25 colonies, all but three proved to be superseding cells.

TREATMENT FOR SWARM PREVENTION

A number of methods of swarm control have been tried and the one found most satisfactory is a combination of dequeening and requeening and a separation of the queen and brood. Early in the honey season when swarming instinct was evident the old queens were removed and the brood with the exception of one capped comb was put on top of the honey supers over the queen excluder and the lower brood chamber filled with drawn comb. At the end of 5 or 6 days all queen cells were removed from the brood comb and a young laying queen was introduced to the brood chamber.

FALLACY OF COMMUNISM

"During seven thousand years or so of detailed recorded history there has never been an absence of conflicting interests. Marx was right. But why should there be and how could there be? Is there any conceivable virtue in a society which differentiates in no degree between ability and incompetency, education and ignorance, integrity and dishonesty, indolence and perseverance? Can one imagine, with any enthusiasm, the entire disappearance of personality and individuality, and substitution of a world of beings cast from one mould in a colorless pattern of sameness and conformity. Here is the essential fallacy in Communism, for a classless and frictionless society is impossible, until every atom of individuality has been bred out of human beings." From "The Canadian Banker," January, 1936.

Dr. Bowstead and Dean Howes from the University of Alberta will speak to the farmers on pastures and feeds. Dr. P. R. Talbot, provincial veterinarian, will discuss diseases of cattle, and Mr. S. G. Carlyle, Provincial Livestock Commissioner, will speak on Bull Loan Policies. In addition to these there will be discussions on present problems led by prominent dairymen of the province. A similar programme has been arranged for buttermakers and manufacturers. Dr. H. R. Thornton will be present at all sessions, and will speak on Milk and Cream Flavors. A feature of the buttermakers' sessions will be the open discussions that have been arranged with creamery men from various parts of the province acting as leaders. Mr. W. Morris of Eckville is Chairman of the Buttermakers' Section this year and Mr. D. Morkeberg of the Manufacturers' Section.

Special meetings and a cheese scoring contest have been arranged for cheese makers. Mr. Burgess of Ottawa will speak on Cheese Defects and their remedies and Dr. Thornton and Mr. Scott from the University of Alberta will deliver addresses.

NEWS NOTES

E. S. Savage, Glenwood, was a Raymond visitor over the week-end.

Another crude oil well blew in at Turner Valley Tuesday night, when the B & B well blew oil and mud 50 feet over the top of the 90 foot derrick. Put on production tests the well was said to be producing 700 barrels daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chato, (nee Miss Jolne Kovrig) returned to Raymond from their honeymoon following their recent marriage. After a few days with relatives in Raymond, they will take up residence in Magrath where the groom is engaged in farming.

Speakers at the Raymond 2nd Ward Sunday evening were Elders Rhonda Dahl who spoke on the "Life of Wilford Woodruff," and C. B. Smith of the "Problem of Youth." The talks were interesting and greatly appreciated by the large audience present.

The two story building of Vicker's Ltd., Drumheller was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday night and Toshioka's store nearby suffered damage from water and smoke. Loss in the blaze totalled $15,000.00 and 15 families had to evacuate their quarters to escape danger from the flames. Harry LeFebvre, fireman was instantly killed when the back wall of the store caved in on him.

D. S. Robertson, Local Manager of the Calgary Power Co., from Magrath, was a Raymond visitor Monday. He states the roads are all right as far as Magrath, and praised the work of the Municipal Grader between here and Welling, declaring the road to be better than it was before the snow when it was quite washboardy.
